

Professional Highlights:

Strategy: Evaluation and Development

- Worked for Heal the Bay and its consortium partners to evaluate the financial, social, and environmental costs and benefits of different potential infrastructure investments in the City of Los Angeles
- Co-authored a high-level report, published by the Inter-American Development Bank, proposing a Climate Change adaptation strategy for the Government of Trinidad and Tobago.
- Developed holistic climate change strategies for public entities: calculated cost-efficiency and cost-benefit analysis; evaluated global best practices, relevant public policy, current social, economic, political context for proposed policies and initiatives
- Researched systemic drivers affecting the global supply chains in the footwear and apparel industry and presented potential strategies to promote transformative change within the sector

Program Management

- Product owner for a technology platform built to manage field activities at Fair Trade USA. The tool is now used by all field teams across all product categories and regions at the organization
- Experience in identifying and executing program and process improvements, training teams on changes, and measuring the business impact of these changes

Strategic Partnerships

- Proven ability to build strategic partnerships: Currently work closely with large multinational companies to successfully bring Fair Trade Certified products to market.
- Experience working with international stakeholders and in various countries in both English and Spanish

About Amy:

Amy has over eight years of experience developing sustainability strategies and programs for both the private and public sectors. She is interested in pursuing innovative ideas that challenge traditional thinking to solve the large, systemic sustainability challenges of our time.

Currently, Amy works as a senior program development and partnerships manager for the factory program at Fair Trade USA. She is responsible for leading strategic programs, identifying key opportunities for growth, and cultivating strategic partnerships.

Amy has a Bachelor's Degree in Economics from UCLA, where she graduated magna cum laude, and a Master's Degree in Sustainable Development and Corporate Responsibility from EOI, where she graduated valedictorian for the department of Environment, Energy and Sustainability.

Skills / Experience:

- Strategy Development
- Business / Partnership Development
- Project Planning and Implementation
- Stakeholder Mapping and Engagement
- Impact Monitoring, Evaluation and Reporting
- Program management and process improvement
- Responsible sourcing policies and benchmarking
- Corporate responsibility strategies, materiality assessments, and benchmarking
- Climate change mitigation and adaptation strategies